

The Night of the Museum 2013

Written by Paolo

Tuesday, 25 March 2014 00:00 - Last Updated Wednesday, 26 March 2014 14:11

18/05/2013 The Night of Museums 2013

Saturday, May 18 adheres Rome, for the fifth consecutive year, the appointment with the Night of Museums, an event that takes place since 2005 with success in Europe and this year will involve more than 3,000 museums in 40 European countries. The state museums, municipal museums, libraries, municipal, private museums, academies and foreign cultural institutions, the University Sapienza, institutes and cultural centers, historic buildings of Rome are extraordinarily open and free of charge from 20 to night at 2 am. Citizens and tourists can visit free of charge to permanent and temporary exhibitions hosted by interested museums, attend concerts and performances, participate in many events. The Night of the Museums of Rome, an exciting experience in 2011 was attended by over 200,000 people this year will involve more than 90 important cultural and exhibition spaces of the city, including the Capitoline Museums, Macro, Montemartini, Markets Trajan, Exhibition Palace, Casa del Cinema, House of Jazz and the museums of the Ministry of Cultural Heritage